

I'm a first time mom with a rambunctious and inquisitive 16 month old. Being a new mom, my husband and I started researching childproofing information anywhere we could find it by the time our son was 3 months old. After realizing that it's a job best left to a professional, I started to look for a childproofing expert in the Denver metro area. I was so surprised to find that nobody in Colorado offered that service. So, we had no choice but to go ahead and try baby proofing our home on our own. It proved to be not only time consuming, expensive in terms of all the trial and error with different products but also futile as some things just refused to work.

I recently came across an advertisement for Colorado Childproofers in the Colorado Parents magazine and immediately called Louie as my son had grown up a little since we baby proofed and I now needed more sophisticated reinforcements. Louie came over immediately, took stock of my house and sent me a thorough list of things to keep my little one safe around my place. He also gave me a lot of practical advice about safety issues involved with a young child that I really appreciated. Once I decided on the things I needed, he came in with all the products and did a great job installing them in what I thought was record time. He was very easy to work with, likes kids and knows a lot about what each house needs given the personality of your child. He is particularly good at dealing with problem areas that every house has and I ended up saving a lot of money and time by getting him to take care of all my current childproofing needs compared to trying to do them on my own. I would recommend his services to any parent who is looking to childproof their home. He is great to work with, knowledgeable and inexpensive.
